This highly amusing farce portrays the effect of love powders on Aunt Samanthy, a confirmed old maid, and a number of other persons who take the powders by accident.

LAC LA BICHE — A mixed choir of 10 voices, from the Slavic Evangelical church in Edmonton, rendered special music at an afternoon service in the Evangelical Free church, Lac la Biche, on Sunday, May 14.

Singing without accompaniment, in the Ukrainian language, the group displayed a high calibre of musical talent and excellent training. A number of duets in the English language were also given by members of the choir and others of the party.

The family of William Maslyk stayed for the evening when Mr. Maslyk took the regular evening service at the church.

Orthodox Ladies Plan Bake Sale

Thanks were extended to all who helped with the bake sale sponsored by the Home and School Association in aid of the water safety program. Mrs. Lobay, Mrs. Shewchuk and Mrs. Senetza were in charge of the bake sale held in Hamar's Store, May 13.

THIS MARVELOUS JET AGE

Breakfast By Edinburgh Castle, Jet Home To Edmonton Same Day

By Ken Larson
Managing Editor

This jet age is fabulous. Last week I had breakfast in the shadow of beautiful Edinburgh Castle in Scotland. Then dinner in London at the airport. Several hours later we touched down at the freeport of Shannon, Ireland. Before reaching Winnipeg, roast duck supper was served aboard the Trans-Canada Airlines 600 m.p.h. DC-8 jet, adding to the delight of viewing Greenland's icy mountains and the southern tip of Hudson Bay. We landed in Edmonton in time for a light snack before going to bed.

However, swift and comfortable modern air travel may be, there is probably no more fascinating experience than visiting Edinburgh, the capital of Scotland, for the first time.

Described as Europe's most beautiful capital city, it is soaked in history and romance. Shopping is pleasant in modern stores along Princes Street, where top quality woolen materials are reasonably priced.

Proof that the Scots people are kindhearted and not pennypinchers as most unflattering jokes depict them is seen in the following incident. I boarded a double decker bus about eight blocks from the North British hotel. As we passed the Sir Walter Scott monument, the conductor asked for my fare. He couldn't change a 10-shilling note ($1.40). I didn't have any small coins and while I was discussing the matter with the conductor, a lady leaned forward and gave me three pennies. There is a saying in Scotland that the citizens don't tell you how to get someplace, they take you there. I believe it's true.

Our host was Len Sampson, a Canadian whose task is to sell TCA travel to the Scots and then sell his countrymen on visiting the land of the heather. He took us on a boat tour of Loch Lomond which, though beautiful with its 33-odd tree-clad islands along a 24-mile stretch of water, can be treacherous. Sudden winds whip the waters into a frenzy and light craft can easily be swamped. Several weeks before, a father had lost his life as he rescued three sons from a swamped dingy.

We visited the "pleasantest dwelling place in Scotland"—a description given to Direlton in East Lothian by Logan of Restalrig in the 16th century. There you may visit the castle which is one of the first stone castles to be built in Scotland by the first Baron de Vaux in 1165. There, The Open Arms Inn, serving the finest meals, faces the castle, and is not far from Bass Rock in the North Sea. At Bass Rock, prisoners were kept in large, cold caves, no doubt in a most miserable condition until they died.

If you're planning a trip to Europe this summer, don't miss Scotland. Although it's one of the smallest countries of the world, it possesses for the holidaymaker a greater variety of facilities and attractions than most other countries.

A week long sea voyage may be restful, but for those who prefer to use up one of those days in air travel and the rest in sightseeing, you'll find that nine hours and 40 minutes by TCA jet is your best bet. Although you won't have Edmonton sales representative Grant McLarty as your personal host as we did, you will enjoy the company's best service which is first class even by economy class standards.

Applications For Gas Installation Sought From Residents Of District

LAC LA BICHE — Two building permits were approved at last week's meeting of town council, one for a private garage and one for a dwelling estimated to cost $9,000.

Councillors Vincent, Bouvier, McMillan and Shanks and Mayor Maccagno and Secretary Creighton were present at the meeting which lasted until the small hours of the morning. A goodly number of visitors were also in attendance.

Fire Chief E. G. Dobson was present to ask if anything was to be done with the fire hall under the winter works program. He was told that the state of the budget for 1961 was too uncertain at present for the town to begin the work. With the change in the provincial government's policy of financing school operations, the amount the town may be called upon to contribute toward school costs is still indefinite and the annual budget cannot be completed until that figure is available.

Considerable time was spent discussing heating systems suitable for the new curling rink waiting room, and submissions from a number of heating contractors were examined. It was decided that two furnace units should be installed and tenders are to be submitted for consideration on that basis. M. A. Perron was given the contract for plumbing installations.

The mayor produced a plan prepared with the co-operation of Banister Construction Co., showing the location of proposed gas main extensions to serve the area south of the NAR tracks. The secretary was instructed to solicit applications for gas from the residents of the area and if the response is favorable the town will go ahead with the plan. Due to the fact that the area is sparsely settled a high percentage of hook-ups must be assured before further steps are taken. Once this is done the plan will be implemented in much the same way and on the same terms as the original gas installation.

The meeting adjourned until the following Tuesday, when it is expected the chief matter for consideration will be a new franchise agreement with Northland Utilities Co. for electric power.

McKinnon, school principal, led the Certified Nursing Aide pledge.

In the report of the Red Cross canvass conducted by the Ladies of St. Catherine, the names of Mrs. Gerald Amiot and Mrs. Phil Patry were inadvertantly omitted.

Const. Murray Thompson who has been posted here with the RCMP for the past two years has been transferred to Edmonton and he, along with Mrs. Thompson and baby daughter, left the first of the week for his new post. Const. George Devlin of Coutts, has arrived to replace Const. Thompson.

25 Lac La Biche Graduates Honored

Dr. W. H. Swift Is Guest Speaker At High School Graduation Exercises

LAC LA BICHE — Dr. W. H. Swift, deputy minister of education, was guest speaker at the graduation exercises for the 1961 class of the high school which bears his name.

The Memorial Hall was beautifully decorated for the evening, having been transformed into a veritable flower garden by potted plants arranged high up around the perimeter of the hall. Placed on the walls at reading height were silhouettes of each graduand with an appropriate quotation from Scripture or poetry. A garden picket fence with cobblestone steps leading to the stage, banked with ferns and potted plants, provided a springlike setting. The decorations as well as all the details of the banquet itself revealed much planning and imagination and was a tribute to teachers and students who had labored so hard to make the evening one long to be remembered by the graduates and friends present.

A turkey dinner, cooked by the mothers of Grades 10 and 11, was served by the girls of those classes. The boys had done a noble job of peeling the potatoes for the meal. They also acted as ushers for the evening.

N. Chodan, high school teacher, acted as MC making full use of his natural wit and ability as a commentator.

Andre Langevin, Grade 11 student, proposed the toast to the graduands and the reply was given by Barry Breau. Elaine Lobay proposed the toast to the teachers to which H. Senetza replied.

The toast to the parents was proposed by Carole Palylyk with Mrs. Lozinski giving the reply.

Class histories were read by Donna Hamar and Rita Maccagno and much enjoyed by the students and parents.

Annetta Senetza entertained with a piano solo after which Kathleen Duban, an honor student for several years, gave the valedictory.

Mr. McMillan, principal of the High School, addressed the graduands and later, in expressing his pleasure in having Dr. and Mrs. Swift as special guests, said it had always been his desire to have Dr. Swift as speaker at a graduation night, but though he had tried many times, Dr. Swift's busy schedule would not permit. However, more than a year ago he requested Dr. Swift to come for this year's event and thus was privileged to have him present for this occasion.

S. N. Odynak, superintendent of schools for Lac la Biche area, then introduced Dr. Swift.

Dr. Swift, who was inspector of schools in this area in the early '30s expressed his pleasure in being present for such a happy occasion. He said he felt it was a great honor to have the High School named after him and stated that he believed it was mainly through the efforts of the late Narcissus Mouille, a long time school trustee to Lac la Biche, that his name was chosen for the High School.

In comparing a few of the conditions in the '30s with those of today, Dr. Swift said he served in the area around Plamondon in 1930 B.G., the B.G. standing for 'before gravel' and he added that no doubt Mr. Odynak would date his time in Lac la Biche as 1960 B.P. 'before paving'.

In addressing the graduands who, as he stated having completed 12 years of school, should be considered educated persons, Dr. Swift chose as his topic "What does it mean to be an educated person?" His first observation was that an educated person should be able to use effectively his native tongue and have a good command of the language. His ability to use his native language should be a manifestation of having acquired an education. He stressed the importance of a good command of English for advancement in the professional or business world or even in the choosing of a husband or wife. He said using correct language was truly a characteristic of an educated person.

He then cited some examples of how our language is changing, and what was deemed to be entirely incorrect at one time is now in common usage by educated people. He urged the graduands to acquire and use a good dictionary. He stressed that the important thing is to give thought to useful language.

His second observation was that an educated person had a high regard for his responsibilities as a citizen. He said that since we live in an age when a great deal is said about our rights to education, freedom etc., as citizens we have responsibilities, and as educated persons we should be more disposed to do something about them. Dr. Swift stated that we have a responsibility to work, and the nature of our work should be such as to contribute to society. He suggested that an educated person should have a better consciousness toward public property. Too many school windows are broken and camp sites wrecked, to name a few instances of the lack of regard for public property.

Dr. Swift also said that an educated person would see the need of doing something regarding public service in his community, such as helping with youth organizations, Boy Scout groups, Sunday schools or taking part in civic affairs. He stressed that an educated person should be more competent to shoulder public service.

In closing his address Dr. Swift expressed his great pleasure in being present and offered congratulation to those who had planned the graduation, in giving so much attention to details which had made the evening so delightful.

Tables were then cleared from the hall and the graduates and their escorts assembled for the grand march and the presentation of scrolls. The young ladies of the class presented a lovely picture in their charming white gowns and fresh flower corsages. The boys too, were handsome in their dark suits and ties and white boutonnieres. When they were assembled on the stage Mr. McMillan presented the scrolls and Katie Ponich and Olga Kovaluk read the class prophecies while proud parents and friends took many flash pictures.

Dancing concluded the memorable evening, with the Harmony Kids of Edmonton supplying the music.

Members of the 1961 graduating class are as follows: Louise Badry, Raymond Kuncio, Linda Price, John Bereza, Gerard Langevin, Deanne Pohranychny, Barry Breau, Elaine Lobay, Dan Payment, Nick Burdek, Marjorie Lozinski, Annetta Senetza, Helen Chomik, Rita Maccagno, Myron Smolarchuk, Kathleen Duban, Loye McCullough, Mae Stefanyk, Donna Hamar, Eileen Onciul, Tillie Tymafichuk, Olga Kovaluk, Carole Palylyk, Marshall Waschuk, Katie Ponich.

PLAMONDON—Mother's Day was one not to be forgotten by many homes in this district, but one of the most outstanding of all was a Mother's Day surprise dinner for Mrs. Elizabeth Plamondon, widow of the late John Babtiste Plamondon.

There were 27 of them and Mrs. Plamondon had begun to wonder what she would prepare for so many, when they went out to their cars and brought in boxes containing food for a full course dinner. All the adults sat at the table and the grandchildren were served buffet style.

Mrs. Plamondon said that words could never express her sincere thanks and her gratitude to her family, for this was truly a memorable Mother's Day for her.

Jasper Place Hotel Licence Suspended

The beverage room licence of the New West Hotel in Jasper Place has been suspended for four days by the Alberta Liquor Control Board.

C. G. MacGregor, acting board chairman, said the premises have been closed from May 8 to 11 because it was found the hotel failed to clear its premises for the supper hour at 6:45 and because it had been serving more than one large glass or two small glasses per person.

LIFE IN OTHER WORLD'S:

Space Radio Signals Fun, But Frightening

What would the discovery of life in outer space mean to us on earth? This was one of the questions discussed at a Seagram Symposium on "Life in Other Worlds" held in New York City. The Toronto Telegram News Service has secured extracts of the discussion. Today, a psychologist comments on the subject.

By DR. DONALD N. MICHAEL
(Senior Staff Psychologist, Brookings Institute, Washington, D.C.)

Let us assume that we do detect radio signals from another solar system. Then what?

I suggest that at this first stage, the whole thing will be both fun and faintly frightening. Don't forget there will be a minimum of years between messages given the great distances between the stars.

However, we can imagine some more serious and persistent stirrings in the minds of three groups at least, especially if preliminary exchanges with the extra terrestrials indicate a possibility of influential communication.

2nd of a Series

These groups are: The interpreters of God, the religious leaders; the interpreters of nature, the scientists; and the interpreters of man, the humanists. While some religious groups have already taken formal positions on life in space, these leaders will have to wonder whether these positions will be accepted by their followers. They'll have to wonder which religious systems will have values and interpretations which prevail best. And they'll have to wonder how the other life will react to their philosophies and injunctions.

HUMANISTS IMPORTANT

The scientists may have good cause to be anxious, too. Compared to the other life, our understanding of nature may appear relatively as primitive as the cave man's.

But the humanists now come into their own, since only man with the characteristics of any membership in mankind can write about, sing about, paint about a man.

For all three groups extra-terrestrial life discovered either by direct exploration or via radio, may present an esepecially difficult intellectual and moral problem.

Even radio contact and the exchange of scientific and logical messages tells us nothing about the souls, mits them to communicate across lightyears, may have ideas on the proper relations among creatures which we can apply too. These may, or they may not, support our most cherished beliefs.
or character of these beings, other than that they are intelligent.

Another shock may be in store for us. Differences in motives, behavior and perceptions of extra-terrestrials may make them completely indifferent to communications with us.

But if the other life should be of such a level and of such motives that it does supply new ideas we can use and through them new artifacts to us on earth, then all speculations about the consequences for man and his societies are almost equally good.

Because then what becomes important are the relative capacities of societies to absorb new ideas. And as has happened many, many times in the past, some societies may not be well able to absorb the new ideas and artifacts. Some societies may prevail and gain dominance, either as strengthened forms of older systems, or as newer forms. And some may disappear altogether.

It will depend on what is conveyed from the extra-terrestrials and what is absorbed of this.

It will also depend very importantly on who does what to whom here on earth, in the process of maintaining or attaining cultural survival and personal leadership in the face of these new ideas.

And let me close with the suggestion that the ideas from outer space may not be technologically oriented. They may be ethical, moral, immoral, aesthetic, or something else.

After all, beings who have survived the threats to societies implicit in an understanding of Nature, which persisted by the railways so long as existing legislation gives no protection against arbitrary action on their part.

"Needless to say we are keenly disappointed that our efforts to secure an equitable settlement, and not be faced with further demands again this year, have been completely frustrated by the rigid attitude of these unions.

It is not always easy to borrow money but it is usually a lot easier than paying the loan.

Cites Alberta's Leadership In Emancipation Of Women

The Province of Alberta was praised as one of the seedbeds of womens' emancipation when an address by Hon. James Hartley was delivered to a meeting of the Women's Committee on Parliamentary Studies in Alberta hall Friday, May 6.

"I am proud of the fact that Alberta was the first place in the world to extend the municipal franchise to women," Mr. Hartley declared. "We followed that first step by electing the two first women MLA's to the Alberta Legislature."

The public works minister said in 1917 Mrs. Louise McKinney, one of the famous five headed by Emily Murphy who won for women the legal definition of "persons," was elected in the general polling that year, together with Miss Roberta McAdams. Miss McAdams was serving overseas in a military hospital and was elected to represent the armed forces overseas.

This province missed out in appointing the first woman cabinet minister, Mr. Hartley said, but Albertans are nevertheless proud that Irene Parlby of Alix was the second cabinet minister of her sex to be elected in the British Commonwealth. Mrs. Parlby served the Alberta Legislature from 1921 to 1935, as minister without portfolio. Women have been in every Legislature since then, he added.

In a very real way, the birth and growth of typical women's groups in Alberta exemplified, in conjunction with the women's franchise, the triumphant entry of women into the world of men's ideas, with consequent enrichment of the whole fabric of our social life, Mr. Hartley believes.

Needless to say, each year in this province — and no doubt clear across Canada — has brought further participation by women in most of the fields which once were reserved exclusively for men, he added.

a book which dealt with the growing importance of women in world affairs. Its title was "The Emotion of the Ideal' and in it the author looked at the role of woman in World War One, as compared with previous wars, and forecast that they would play ever more important parts in the future. The Emotion of the Ideal, he set out to prove, was some special quality invested in woman, but denied ordinary man. That emotion, and its ideal, he believed would force the philosophy and the policy of a national and international mother love on the peoples of the world, to their everlastnig good," the speaker said.

Mr. Hartley said he was particularly impressed with the vigor with which women's organizations attacked social problems. He was likewise impressed by the patriotic note which was struck in all the things that women do. "Thank heaven for this display of patriotism. It shows a love of Canada and the Mother Country, and all the other countries which make up the Empire and the Commonwealth."

Still on the IODE theme the Alberta cabinet minister complimented the order on its 41 years of service in Alberta and its membership of 2,076 in 92 chapters. "I am impressed by your budget — raising $150,000 a year is a big task, and spending it on a host of projects, educational scholarships, cultural prizes, classes for New Canadians, aiding the needy and others. "This is the type of thing on the social front which I am sure your women's committee on parliamentary studies can emulate on the legislative front," he suggested.

In conclusion, Mr. Hartley drew attention to a recent article in Chatelaine in which the writer said all women should disband their clubs and organizations and get into the mainstream of Canadian life instead.

Noting that several members of the group were also active in the IODE, Mr. Hartley recalled that at a recent convention he attended this type of patriotism was included in the menu. "I remember dining on Relishes Elizabeth and Tomato Soup Philip, as well as Royal Roast Leg of Steer and Duchess potatoes. By way of a hint, I might mention that I am a Yorkshireman by birth and my home county is mighty fond of a particular brand of pudding that goes very well with Royal Roast of Leg of Steer or even Commoner steer," Mr. Hartley quipped.

"I recall that Miss Elizabeth Owen, Councillor of the Royal Commonwealth Society, happened to be visiting in Alberta when that appeared and she was asked to comment.

She did. "Goodness help the men if the women drop their own activities and throw their energies into the world of men," she said. Miss Owen pointed out that in the welfare state, where the government is supposed to do everything, the work of women's clubs is the only real factor in the real well-being of the community. If you do something for nothing, she said, it means you do it because you think it is worth while. And all voluntary projects help the women themselves, as well as those they are organized to help. Women bring into their projects a greater knowledge of humanity, and a force which can do a tremendous amount of good.

"Here again is that emotion of the ideal I mentioned earlier. It is always present. And the more good work done by women's organizations through the years, the more powerful will this emotion become, so that ultimately it will dominate the people of the earth, and help to achieve the objective of universal brotherhood in a society that is individually and economically free," Mr. Hartley concluded.

The loss of money seldom worries an intelligent person; it is the loss of faith that wrecks the life.

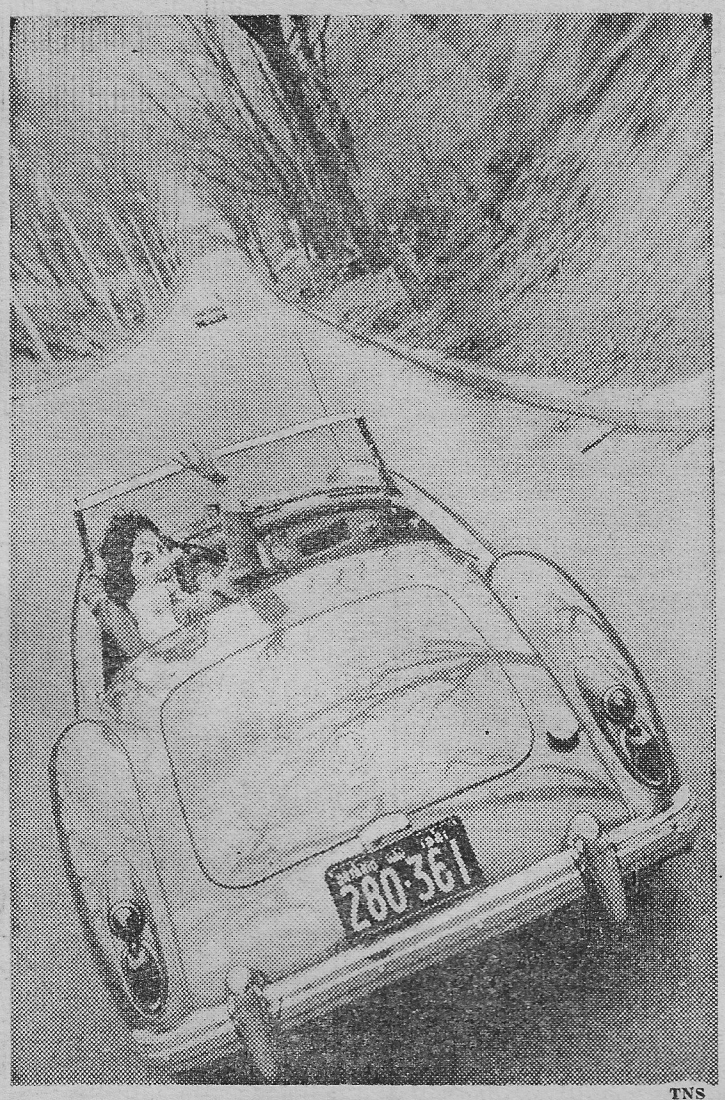
A couple of Scotchmen were walking along a road and one was jingling something in his pocket. His pal asked, "Jock, you must have plenty of money in there?"

"Oh, no," said Jock, "that's my wife's teeth . . . there's too much eating between meals at our house."



TNS

More and more Canadian women are taking to the road, and one of the favorites of young women seems to be the sports car. Barbara Lewis seems to be sailing down this thoroughfare in her zippy little car, but the effect of movement is a photographer's trick accomplished on a darkroom easel.

Mannville Group Asks Co-operation Of Commerce Chamber In Activities

The Mannville and District Recreation Council welcomed delegates from the Junior and Senior High Students' Unions to their recent meeting in the school library together with representation from Elks, Legion, Board of Trade, Royal Purple, Legion Auxiliary, Happy Hour WA, Happy Centre WI and Five-Point WI as well as interested individuals.

Chairman Jack Persinger of the baseball committee reported on baseball activities and Mrs. J. Coxford on softball activities. Friday, May 5 was set as organization night for all classes of ball.

Representation was reported having been made to the town council regarding repair of ball diamonds across the track and this was being looked into.

Rev. H. Shell was appointed a delegate to the next chamber of commerce meeting to bring up the subject of the proposed park for Mannville. It was felt that since the forming of the chamber of commerce it may wish to promote such projects, help being available from the Community Council where needed. It is realised that this must be a long-range project since much planning and expert advice must be forthcoming before any concrete action is taken.

It was reported that the school is attempting to find suitable candidates to attend the leadership course in Red Deer during the month of July, these candidates to be sponsored by the Recreation Council as previously reported.

It was decided to have printed weekly in the Mannville Mirror a town calendar listing all clubs and organizations and dates on which they hold their regular meetings, together with any extra activities planned; that is, projects including bingos, teas, social evenings, plays and dances. All organizations interested are requested to write or phone Mrs. J. Coxford.

Aims of the Recreation Council were discussed. Some of these were to give status and sponsorship to any recreation program for which there is a need; to encourage and sponsor leadership where needed; to encourage all existing organizations whether public, private, civic, social or religious; to work together towards providing Mannville and district with a well balanced recreation program; to come in contact and understand existing problems that confront the community and work towards their solution. In general the Recreation Council, in co-operation with the board of trade and other interested organizations, would like to make Mannville a more attractive place in which to live and do business and thus cement its place in Alberta in this rapidly changing world.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY
PARENT EDUCATION ASSOCIATES

AS Daddy turned in the driveway each evening he looked for his small golden-haired daughter. There she was tonight, as usual.

As usual? Yes, but only until she voiced her greeting.

"Daddy, you're a double-crosser, double-dealer, double-darner . . .", newspapers don't print the rest!

Every parent suffers a shock when the first attack of bad language reaches his own family, and this father was no exception. Yet bad language among children is as prevalent as the common cold.

We wrote to teachers in various provinces, and all reported it was an epidemic in their part of the country.

It seems to live in the air, and attack even the best families. It is apparently non-preventable, but fortunately it is curable.

SMALL FRY

When the small fry hear certain words spoken with great emphasis and with feeling it is natural that they should mark them, and try them out.

Bad language will sometimes languish if it accomplishes nothing in the way of parental reaction.

Success may depend upon how clever the parent can be at acting complete unconcern. It is helpful to remember that usually the child has no notion of the meaning of what he is saying; neither is his bad language a sign that he has taken the first step along the primrose path to the everlasting bonfire.

Some children may need to be told, "We don't use those words in our family; so don't let us hear them again."

There will be a great number of visitors here from the neighboring lodges in this district, also the Grand Loyal Knight, Henri Delorme, from the Dominion Grand Lodge, with other Lodge members from Edmonton.

Auxiliary Girls Attend Festival; Return With Second Place Banner

LLOYDMINSTER — The Girls Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church recently attended a festival at Wilkie, Sask.

Nine girls and their leaders, Mrs. Art Barradell and Mrs. Cecil Snowden, motored to Wilkie and brought home the banner awarded to them for the second highest marks at the festival.

Wilkie and Cutknife tied for first place with 165 points of a total of 200. Lloydminster GA followed with 164 points.

Thirteen groups entered from different cities and towns in Saskatchewan. The girls have competitions in churchmanship, mission study, music, cooking, sewing, handicraft, physical fitness and drama. They also received marks on their attendance at all meetings, the neatness and orderliness of secretarys and treasurer's books and a year book.

GA festivals are held annually. Competition between groups is not main object.

The good fellowship enjoyed by the girls makes these meetings most worthwhile.

During the day, the girls attended a church service and later church sing-songs and games.

The day ended with a banquet, followed by the presentation of the shield and banner which the winners keep until next year.

Girls attending were: Patsy Bittner, Cheryl Jackson, Joan Wickett, Nelda Jensen, Wendy Mansell, Wendy Morlidge, Cheryl Skinner, Karen Harbin and Christine McGillawee.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Nels Jensen who taught the girls singing; Mrs. George Morlidge for square dance lessons and Mrs. Norm Wickett who assisted with transportation.

Not every one of our dreams come true, but we continue to have our dreams.

Whooping Cranes Visit Hillmond

Five whooping cranes were sighted feeding in the Hillmond district last week by R. A. Miller of Lloydminster, a member of the fish and game association, and other residents of the district.

Only 36 whooping cranes are known to exist in their natural state.

The birds winter each year on the gulf of Mexico and move north in the spring to breeding grounds in the Great Slave Lake area.

Garage Blaze Extinguished By Mundare Fire Department

MUNDARE — The garage of W. P. Stawnichy was damaged considerably by fire recently. The fire started somewhere near the bottom of the building and crept up the walls to the roof.

A 1949 Ford car, inside the garage at the time, was completely ruined and various other objects in storage were burned. The car was pulled out by the local volunteer fire department but not before it had been badly damaged. Only the immediate arrival of the fise department saved the garage from complete destruction.

Earlier the same day a fire at Mrs. M. Rogalsky's residence was reported to the fire department. Upon arriving on the scene the brigade found that a grass fire which had been allowed to burn out of control had ignited a wall of the house. The flames were quickly extinguished.

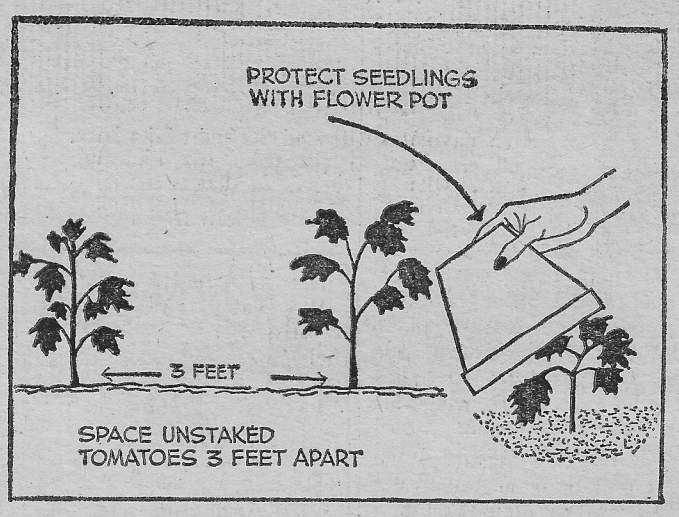
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



BEWARE, TOMATOES ARE TENDER

CURB your impatience and play it safe by waiting until all danger of frost is past before planting tomatoes outdoors. This may even mean June 1 in our most northern areas.

If you do not have hotkaps, then, after planting, cover each seedling with a flower pot, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The pot will protect the plant from the sun until danger of wilting is past. Take off the pots at night and on cloudy days.

Space tomato plants well apart from each other. Early ones, if not to be staked, should be set at least 36 inches apart each way, as shown. If you intend to stake them, 24 inches apart will be enough.

Place each young plant in a hole filled with water and press the loose soil firmly about the roots.

It is a good plan to plant tomatoes a little deeper than they were previously growing.

A starter solution poured around each plant hastens growth. Such a solution can be made by dissolving three or four ounces of a 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 or any other good fertilizer in a gallon of water.

When you stake tomatoes, use stout stakes some six feet long. Set them 18 inches into the ground. When fastening the plants to the stakes, tie with strips of soft cloth.

Absent at the time the picture was taken were: Guy and Kevin Morrison, Gina Kravetz, Arnie Olyan and Bonnie Westrom. —Photo by Ernie's Studio, Vegreville.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Every gardener should have this useful reference. It has been compiled by a group of experts, namely the Alberta Horticultural Advisory Committee. The introduction states —"A map of Alberta showing the Horticultural Zones lists of recommended fruits and vegetables for each zone; concise information on many hardy ornamental plants; and other practical help that should be of interest and value to home and commercial gardeners. Keep it with your gardening books for reference.

B. McCutcheon

This booklet is revised every two years and up-to-date information is incorporated. Natural variation in growing conditions, in soils, sites, amount of shelter, rainfall, proximity of large bodies of water and sharp changes in altitude,, all may cause local areas in any zone to be more or less favorable. The varieties listed are not the only ones that can be grown satisfactorily; they are the ones considered to be most widely adaptable. When reporting gardening experience, keep these factors in mind. Interested gardeners can help improve the Guide by sending reports of successes or failures with new or unusual plants and techniques to the Provincial Horticulturist or to the Division of Horticulture, University of Alberta.

PLANTING TREES AND SHRUBS:

Spring planting is preferred for most trees and shrubs. Deciduous Material: Keep roots moist and protect from wind and sun until planted. Dig holes large enough to hold roots with out cramping and set plant slightly deeper than before.

Prune off any broken or dead portions of the root and then work top soil among the roots until hold is full. Tramp soil firmly to eliminate any air spaces which cause drying out of roots. If soil is dry half fill hole with water and allow to soak away. Leave a small depression for water.

EVERGREENS:

When these come from the nursery with their roots balled in soil and wrapped with burlap, do not remove the burlap when planting. It does not hinder the growth of the roots as it rots quickly. Dig hole deep enough to hold the ball, pack top soil around it and proceed exactly as you would for deciduous material. When watering, however, break the force of the water by wrapping burlap around the end of the hose.

Evergreens may be planted in the late summer, but should be watered heavily before freeze-up in order to bring them through the winter.
